Not voting will cost you big time.

After bailing out greedy executives on Wall Street and in the auto industry, Congress wants you to pay for their latest pet projects: government-run health care and new energy taxes. Some in Congress even want to pass a card-check law that could take away your privacy rights on the job. It all adds up to more money out of your pocket.

Register and Vote.
It Costs Too Much Not To.

Unless you have money to burn, you can't afford to sit out the 2010 elections. Register and vote, and tell your family, friends and coworkers to support candidates who will fight government-run health care, tax hikes and protect your privacy on the job.
