

Josh Barber Interstates

Josh Barber has made an exceptional impact at Interstates. He started his career with Interstates in 2005. After traveling for a short period of time, Josh settled in our Fort Collins, Colorado regional office. Several years later, he seized an opportunity to expand this office to include service and small project work. With a natural talent for connecting with people, Josh started calling on customers, identifying their unique needs, and demonstrating what solutions Interstates could provide. The opportunities were immediate and things took off. In 2010, he was officially named Service Manager for the Fort Collins, Colorado regional office.

Josh grew the service division rapidly and in 2015 he was promoted to Regional Manager. Under his leadership, the office continues to grow. Our craft force has more than doubled in size and revenues have grown by double digits since he stepped into the manager role. He is also a key member of the Interstates Construction leader team and a shareholder in Interstates.

The Independent Electrical Contractors (IEC) apprentice program has been a critical resource for this office. A number of our electricians have participated in the program over the years, and 34 are currently enrolled. Interstates will continue to leverage this program in support of the electrical industry and the Fort Collins regional office which has experienced tremendous success under the leadership of Josh Barber.
