

Clay Hamilton

Whites Electrical

Clay recently took over as the hands-on owner/operator of Whites Electrical, a full-service electrical contracting company, as of January 1, 2018. A graduate of the IEC Apprenticeship Program in 2009, he has worked his way up through the industry. Holding positions at all levels, beginning as a laborer, to an apprentice, graduating to journeyman, to project manager, operations manager, Vice President, and now to President and small business owner, he takes pride in understanding all aspects of the trade and being able to relate to every one of his employees.

Prior to stepping into his role as President of White's, he was Vice President and in charge of day-to-day operations. Since taking over, the business has grown and now employs 30 people in various positions. His goal is to help his team grow and achieve their full potential, as well as provide good working conditions and benefits so that everyone succeeds, fully believing that his team is the backbone of the company. As a sponsor of the IEC Apprenticeship Program, he loves to hire apprentices and help them learn the electrical trade, saying that they are the future of our industry. He says that the most satisfying part of his job is to see an employee you've worked with and helped train up succeed and take pride in what they've accomplished.
